"I AM SINCERE," CARRANZA DECLARES

GERMAN FORCES WITHDRAWN FROM VERDUN TO THE SOMME

TEUTONS LACK RESERVES IS THE OPINION HELD BY BRITISH MILITARY MEN

French Within Three Miles of Major Objective of Peronne; Trench Line East of Curlu Is Captured; Third Line German Defenses Attacked

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 5.—The kaiser is withdrawing troops from the Verdun front to meet the supreme offensive of the allies, which continued to gain ground on both sides of the river Somme in last night's fighting.

Dispatches from British headquarters this afternoon announced the appearance of German units from the Verdun battle ground on the north bank of the river Somme. The news was regarded as vastly more important than the French and British official statements, reporting further gains in most of the fighting last night.

How many German troops have been transferred from Verdun is not yet known. But British military men declared tonight that the allied offensive already has suceeded in one of its objects, the lightening of the German pressure on Verdun. They held that the shifting of troops from that all-important German offensive indicates a shortage of German reserves and a realization by the Germans of the grave menace of the present allied offensive.

Statements from the German, British and French war office this afternoon agreed that the allied drive was resumed on a great scale last night with heavy fighting on both sides.

Press dispatches from British headquarters carried the additional word that the German counter attacks at Thiepval were repulsed this morning.

The German war office issued only a very brief statement on the allied offensive, announcing only that violent fighting continues on both sides of that Somme.

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, July 5.—French troops advanced their lines to within less than three miles of the city of Peronne one of the immediate objectives of the great allied offensives, in a resumption of the fighting on a large scale north and south of the Somme last night.

The French was office today announced not only the capture of Sormont farm, south of Somme and across the river from the village of Clery, but also an advance on a front of nearly three miles south of the farm.

German positions from the farm itself to a height nearly three miles south of the river on the Flaucourt-Barleaux fell into the hands of the French. By the capture of these positions the French not only straightened their front south of the Somme, but pressed slightly closer to Peronne.

North of Somme the French drove eastward from Curlu toward the highway leading south from Coombes, over which the Germans in the region of Clery have been obtaining supplies.

"During the night we carried a German trench line east of Curlu north of the Somme," it was officially announced today.

"South of the Somme following further gains French infantry captured the Sormont farm situated on the left bank of the river across from Clery (east of Curlu). All the southern region between this farm and Hill 63, on the road between Flaucourt and Barleux fell into the hands of the French.

"The position at Belloy on Santerre (captured by the French Monday) was attacked by the Germans during the night. They captured the eastern part of the village, but were afterward ejected by a counter attack.

"The Germans are still holding part of the village of Estrees (southwest of Peronne) where the struggle is most violent. All German counter attacks broke down under French fires.

"The total number of unwounded German prisoners in our hands thus far is over 9,000. The number of guns captured is yet unknown. A single French army corps operating south of the Somme captured sixty guns."

IMPORTANT WORK NEAR VERDUN IS PRIZE OF GERMANS

PARIS, July 5.—The Thiaumont work, around which some of the bloodiest fighting of the war has taken place, has been captured by the Germans for the fourth time, according to the official statement issued by the French war office last night.

The French have advanced south and east of Assewillers, where they have captured a wood and the villages of Barleux and Belloy-en-Santerre. They also have taken the greater part of the village of Esttees, where 500 prisoners fell into their hands.

German attacks on the Verdun front continued with the greatest violence last night, despite the tremendous pressure of the allied offensive along the Somme.

The war office announced today that the Germans made a powerful attack last night between Avocourt and Hill 304, using liquid fire extensively. The attack was repulsed by French fire, the enemy suffering slightly.

RICHARDSON TAKES COMMAND AT CLOSE OF PERFECT FOURTH

Brigadier General Assumes the Chief Officership of First Wisconsin Brigade in Ceremoney at Camp

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—Brigadier General Lorrain T. Richardson assumed command of the First Brigade, Wisconsin infantry, just as the sun was setting at the close of a perfect Fourth of July.

Adjutant General Orlando Holway assembled the three regiments of more than 4,500 men before camp headquarters following the evening mess last night. They marched up in company formation and came to rest upon a grassy slope.

"Attention," commanded the general from the porch. The men leaped to their feet and stood facing the general and Brigadier General Charles King and General Richardson, who stood at his side. About the edges of the throng stood several hundred visitors.

First Full Brigade

"Officers and men of the First, Second and Third regiments," said General Holway, "you now constitute the first complete brigade ever assembled in the history of the state, I believe. You have been called to the service of the United States. You are fortunate. We are fortunate, the United States is fortunate in having available for the command of such an organization a man of tried skill by whose experience you have been profiting for two years. CARRANZA'S REPLY TO U. S. DEMANDS

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The text of the note from General Carranza to Secretary Lansing delivered today, follows:

"MR. SECRETARY:

I have the honor to transmit in continuation the text of a note which I have just received from my government with instructions to present to your excellency.

"'Mr. Secretary:

"'Referring to the notes of June 20 and 25 last, I have the honor to say to your excellency that the immediate release of the Carrizal prisoners was a further proof of the sincerity of the desire of this government to reach a pacific and satisfactory arrangement of present difficulties.

"'The government is anxious to solve the present conflict and it would be unjust if its attitude should be misinterpreted.

Suggested Cantonments

"'It was also the Mexican government that earnestly suggested the plan for cantonments along the boundary line during the conferences of Ciudad, Juarez and El Paso. This government is disposed now, as it has always been, to seek an immediate solution of the two points which constitute the true causes of the conflict between the two countries to wit: The American government believes reasonably that the insecurity of its frontier is a source of difficulty and the Mexican government on its part believes that the stay of American troops on Mexican territory aside from being a trespass on the sovereignty of Mexico, is the immediate cause of the conflict.

"'Therefore, the withdrawal of American troops on the one hand and the protection of the frontier, on the other, are the two essential problems the solution of which must be the directing object of the efforts of both governments.

Open to Consideration

"'The Mexican government is willing to consider in a quick and practical way, and prompted by a spirit of concord, the remedies which should be applied to the present situation.

Ready for Mediation

"'Several Latin-American countries have offered their friendly mediation to the Mexican government and the latter has accepted it in principle. Therefore, the Mexican government only awaits information that the government of the United States would be disposed to accept this mediation for the purpose mentioned above or whether it is still of the belief that the same results may be attained by means of direct negotiation by both governments.

"'In the meantime this government proposes to employ all efforts that may be at its disposal to avoid the recurrence of new incidents which may complicate and aggrevate the situation. At the same time it hopes that the American government on its part may make use of all efforts to prevent also new acts of its military and civil authorities on the frontier that may cause new complications.

"'I avail myself of this opportunity to reiterate to your excellency the assurance of my most distinguished consideration.

(Signed) "'C. AGUILAR.'

"Having thus complied with the higher instructions of my government, it affords me pleasure to reiterate to your excellency the assurance of my most distinguished consideration.

(Signed) "E. ARREDONDO."

The note is dated July 4.

THIRD WISCONSIN WILL LEAVE FOR SAN ANTONIO TUESDAY; LAST TO GO

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 5.—The Third Wisconsin will leave for San Antonio Tuesday.

Late this afternoon it became known that orders to remove the Wisconsin brigade to Texas had been received as follows:

First regiment, Saturday, trains leaving at 10:30 a. m., 12.30 and 1:30 p. m.; Second regiment Monday, same order; Third regiment Tuesday, same order.

GOAT EATS FINECUT AND HOSPITAL CORPS HAVE TRIALS REVIVING MASCOT

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—"Doc", mascot of the Third Regiment mounted orderlies didn't like his daily menu of hard tack and beans. Yesterday he broke tether and went on a foraging expedition through the camp.

"Doc" wandered into a tent. When his owners found him he had consumed two packages and a cigar-box full of a strong brand of finecut tobacco.

The La Crosse hospital corps, with which "Doc" is a great favorite, came on the run with a stretcher. "Doc" was given a stimulant and removed to his quarters—a sick goat.

Few visitors being in the Third regiment camp, the glorious Fourth passed off quietly. The soldiers were given the afternoon to themselves until 5:35 when retreat was blown.

WANTED!—A MONKEY!

Have you got a monkey?

The field hospital has its parrot, the band has its billy-goat, and company M has—a great longing for a monkey to "serve as its mascot throughout the war."

So earnestly does company M want its monkey that it has sent one of its members to La Crosse as a recruiting officer. The gentleman has asked the TRIBUNE to issue a call for volunteers, and this campaign was begun by securing a list of all La Crosse people who own monkeys. The company guarantees the best of treatment, and that Mr. Monkey will be returned with shoulder-straps at the close of the international difficulties.

So please notify the TRIBUNE office where the recruiting officer may call for the monkey.

TWO INJURIES TOLL OF FOURTH CELEBRATIONS

Small Boy Suffers Concussion of Brain in Leap from a Swiftly Moving Oak Grove Street Car

THOUGHT CRACKER O U T

Russell Halseth Badly Burned on Hands When Cannon Cracker Explodes as He Holds It

One small boy is unconscious, suffering with concussion of the brain, from a leap from a street car last night and a North La Crosse lad is confined with severe burns as the result of an exploding cannon cracker. Persons on a south bound Sixteenth street car were in danger when a small boy bombarded the car with a Roman candle. These are the results of Independence Day celebrations yesterday.

Roellig Boy Hurt

Julius Roellig, 9-year-old son of George J. Roellig, 1501 Badger street, was seriously injured last night when he attempted to jump from the Oak Grove cemetery car just before it climbed the hill near La Crosse street.

The car was moving too fast for the boy and he struck the ground on his head.

He did not recover consciousness last night.

Examination revealed the fact that he was suffering from concussion of the brain. He was only partly conscious this morning. Althoukh it is expected that the lad will recover, the case has become decidedly serious, although at the time of the accident the injury was thought to be nothing more than a slight cut in the head. The boy was rushed to the La Crosse hospital at once.

Julius had been to the Country club with his older brother, who was caddying during the afternoon. The pair remained to see the fireworks in the evening and were returning to their home shortly after 9 o'clock when the accident occured. The injured boy had witnessed the older lads jump from the car time after time and it was in attempting to duplicate their feats that he was hurt.

Hurt By First "Cracker"

One of the first accidents of the day occurred at an early hour yesterday morning on the north side.

Russell Halseth, whose home is at 1413 Wood street, jumped out of bed early yesterday morning with the intention of being the first in the house to celebrate. A monster cannon-cracker was to be the first victim. The lad lit the prize, but as it did not boom fast enough to suit his spirited patriotism, he approached the missile, thinking it was out. Just as he picked up the cracker to see what was wrong the explosion occurred. It burned both the boy's hands and arms badly. Although the burns are painful, the accident was not of a serious nature as the fire from the explosion did not reach his face.

Bombards Car

What was a narrow escape from a serious accident occurred when a ball from a small boy's Roman candle shot through the window of a south bound street car on Fifth street last night.

MOTIVES ENTIRELY FOR PEACE WITH AMERICANS OPEN FOR MEDIATION

Completely Pacificatory Note Emphasizes Release of Carrizal Prisoners as Evidence of Good Faith on the Part of the De Factos

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Completely pacificatory in tone the Carranza note answering the last two American communications to Mexico was sent to Secretary Lansing today by Ambassador Arredondo.

The reply is brief. It emphasizes the significance of the immediate release of the American prisoners taken in the Carrizal fight as being indicative of Carranza's sincere desire to work with the United States.

Signed by Foreign Minister Aguilar, the note formally announces the de facto government's favorable attitude toward mediation as suggested by Latin-American countries, but leaves it to the United States to say whether this method or direct negotiations shall be relied upon to solve the situation.

The embarrassment resulting from the presence of American troops in Mexico is again emphasized, but the demand for their withdrawal is not reiterated.

U. S. WILLING TO CONTINUE EFFORTS FOR SETTLEMENT

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 5. — The United States government is willing to continue negotiations with the Carranza government in view of the latter's desire to maintain relations, as expressed in the Carranza note received today.

This was made known by the state department officially today, after it had considered the English translation of the Carranza message, though whether such continuance will be by means of mediation or direct negotiations between the two nations was not revealed.

Secretary Lansing said, however, that rejection of informal mediation overtures from the Bolivian minister recently could not be interpreted as a final rejection of the principle. Instead, he pointed out, this was contingent upon receipt of the Carranza reply.

The department's announcement, aside from an expression of willingness to continue negotiations, was merely that the note had arrived, had been translated and had been sent to President Wilson.

Manifestly from Lansing's comment the document is satisfactory, as forecasted yesterday.

Unofficial Diplomacy Helps

The Mexican note delivered today by Mexican Ambassador Arredondo to Secretary Lansing was expected to pave the way for peaceful readjustment of strained relations between the United States and Mexico. So a remarkable bit of unofficial diplomacy was revealed.

There was a time, it became known today, when General Carranza had framed and practically was ready to send a defiant reply to the demands of President Wilson. This was little more than a week ago.

Bombard Carranza

Then the unofficial diplomats got busy. They include American and Mexican labor leaders and various persons sympathetic with the cause of labor in the United States. In the last class it included Lincoln Steffens, recently guest of General Carranza for several months. Among the labor leaders is Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor. These men had easy access to the attention of General Carranza—Gompers through the fact that Carranza has worked in close touch with Mexican labor leaders and the latter have endorsed Gompers to him.

Mexican Embassy Helps

The Mexican embassy here helped make the way easy for communication. The group of intermediaries bombarded the first chief without let up. They concentrated on one idea, they now say, that of convincing Carranza that President Wilson was sincere in his wish to keep hands off Mexican internal affairs.

They brought every argument at hand to bear on the Mexican executive to prove to him the president was as anxious as himself to prevent intervention or war. Telegrams went, not only from Washington, but from various other parts of the United States, where there were men in Carranza's confidence.

SHIELDS MAY BE ARRESTED UNDER WHITE SLAVE ACT

CHICAGO, July 5.—Hinton G. Clabaugh of the United States department of justice, said today that federal officers were expected today to arrest Robert J. Shields, a wealthy Superior, Wis., insurance man and politician, on a Mann act charge.

Clabaugh said a warrant was issued Saturday, charging Shields with transporting Jeanette Palmer from Chicago to Superior, two years ago, and establishing her in a resort there.

Shields was an investigator for the defense in the proceedings to oust William Lorimer from the United States senate.

Shield Not Located

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—A. C. Hobbmann, assistant United States district attorney, said today that Robert J. Shields was indicted at Eau Claire, R. J. Flint, United States marshal for the western district of Wisconsin, said that Deputy Wm. Pugh had gone to Superior to make the arrest, but so far had been unable to find Shields.

Shields was the political "boss" of Superior. In the Stephenson investigation it was shown that he had acceped money from the senator in connection with the campaign. He was one of the leading witnesses for the defense in the Lorimer bribery case before the United States senate.

BATTERY AND TROOP OF BADGER MILITIA REACH SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 5.—Battery A and Troop A of cavalry of Wisconsin militia arrived today.

The Third and Fourth Illinois infantry felt like old man Noah today when they detrained at Fort Sam Houston in a driving downpour of rain. The downpour ceased only after the company streets had been converted into minjature rivers with beds of oozy mud several inches deep.

Funston said he had received no reports today from General Pershing or others of his commanders.

La Prenza, an anti-Carranza paper published here, predicts the punitive exedition will be withdrawn, and that there will be no war between the United States and Mexico.

ST. MARY'S, Kan., July 5.—While a woman stood guard, three yeggs early today blew the safe of the St. Mary's State bank, escaping with $2,400 after wounding four persons.

HOW ABOUT JAPAN

X—Uninvited Guests
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—Between Japan and the United States today lie two great unsolved problems. They are the problem of conflicting Pacific policies and the problem of immigration.

We are too prone to regard these questions as settled, as soon as they drop out of sight for a few weeks or a few months. They are as far from being settled today as they ever were. More than that, they are continually adding to their vitality and importance with the passage of time.

Along with the many disadvantages attaching to the centralizing of power in the hands of a small group of men, Japan has derived one compensating benefit from the system. She has gained a consistent foreign policy. Her statesmen have never lost sight of the two great issues that face their empire. They have withdrawn those issues from notice at times, when circumstances seemed unfavorable, but they have never for a moment forgotten them. They never relax their efforts to put Japan in the most favorable position to meet them when the time comes.

Will Come Up Again

These issues willl come to the front again, beyond the shadow of a doubt. They are so real and fundamental that they will arise of their own vitality sooner or later; and Japan stands ready to raise them as soon as she thinks the time has come to do so with advantage.

Japan has steadily pursued her two-fold foreign policy. Her objects are the opening of a road for her people to emigrate to the Occident, and the extension of her power in Asia, with a view to ultimate dominance of the Orient. At the time of the sudden outbreak of the European war, she had been devoting her attention to the matter of emigration. With the war came an unexpected perfect opportunity to further her other aim, the domination of China, and she hastily turned to avail herself of it.

Extorted Concessions

Under cover of the world-conflict she extorted concessions from China that she might never have gained otherwise. It is no wonder that she let the emigration question lapse for the moment. To regard that question therefore as settled, to imagine that she has let it lapse for good, would be the height of short-sighted folly. Every sign points to a renewal of the dispute on the part of Japan in the near future.

The immigration question has been so thoroughly discussed that it seems unnecessary to review it. Yet the very richness of the comment and argument poured forth on the matter has contributed largely toward burying the fundamental issue at stake. The mass of the discussion has concerned itself with superficial aspects of the situation, until he real conflict of interest, policy and principle has been almost lost to sight.

Japanese emigration to the Occident so far is only the ripple before the wave. With Japan's population increasing at the rate of almost a million a year, with the spreading of Occidental methods of sanitation and Occidental ideas of the value of life promising to augment that increase greatly as time passes, it is obvious that the eighty thousand Japanese now in the United States can have no real effect on the problem one way or the other.

Japs Here Problem

In themselves they constitute another problem, but it is a problem separate and distinct. American thought tends to regard the two issues as one. Japanese diplomacy has contributed to the error by focusing attention on the case of the Japanese in America, but it is certain that Japanese statesmen have never confused the problem of what to do with an increase of population of almost a million a year with the question of the status of a few thousand Japanese in California.

The case of the Japanese in California is in itself a real issue in Japan. Japanese national pride is a very real and sensitive thing. The California question itself will arise again. Japan dropped the negotiations over the anti-alien land bills with the express stipulation of resuming them when she got ready. The gentlemen's agreement, by which Japan voluntarily excludes her laborers from the Pacific coast, and to which she has adhered with exemplary faithfulness, is still a source of continual irritation to many elements in Japan, as a study of the Japanese press will show. The time and study devoted to the California question, the mass of evidence and argument printed concerning it, all apply to an important international deadlock. The bulk of it does not apply to the great underlying problem at all.

Want Satisfactory Solution

The question has been discussed with a view to finding a solution which should meet the wishes of both parties. Americans of the Pacific coast have plainly stated their wishes. They do not want a stream of Japanese labor. The Japanese have shown a willingness to meet the American viewpoint on this angle, at least temporarily. They have voluntarily limited their emigration. They demand in return, however, that America should respect their national pride. Thus in looking for a solution of the conflict, investigators have tried to find a scheme which should at once exclude the Japanese without insulting them.

A typical device to this end is the system which would amend all our emigration laws so that the immigrants admitted would bear some definite proportion to those already here. Under this arrangement, the people of any nation which forms a large element in our population would be admitted as freely as ever, because those who want to come in are only a very small fraction of those we already have with us. On the other hand, the Japanese immigration would be cut down to next to nothing at all. At the same time, Japanese would be put on an equal footing with the rest of the world, and thus their pride would have nothing to take offense at. The pill of exclusion would go down sugar-coated.

Such an expedient has its value—but what of the million extra Japanese whom the empire has to find room for every year?

Is He Good Resident?

Similarly, our invesigaors have devoted themselves to discussion of the value of the Japanese as a resident. They have photographed him picking strawberries, they have compiled statistics on his earning capacity and his treatment of the soil and his breaches of contract. They have analyzed his political prejudices, his economic status and his domestic morality. Their conclusions are very valuable—but we must not forget that they apply to the problem of the Japanese in the United States, not to the steadily rising pressure of Oriental millions that make the real immigration problem.

That problem, like the Chinese question, represents a fundamental conflict of policy and principle. It is a case where each side sees itself in the right, where each side feels that national well-being, even national existence, may depend on the triumph of its contention. The Japanese must have room. The United States bars the way—must bar the way, in the interests of self-preservation—to the very room they want.

For a time, Japan hoped to gain one of her great ends by gaining the other. She hoped that her dominance of great sections of eastern Asia would not only give her the markets her industries need, but also the field that her population demands for its expansion. That hope has proven futile. Japan has taken over Korea and Formosa, practically taken over Manchuria. She has encouraged emigration into these territories by every possible means. Yet the quantity of that emigration has been negligible. Even the Japanese-controlled railways in Manchuria find that if they want to run on a business basis, they have to employ Chinese labor. Chinese live on less and do more. They have a lower economic standard than the Japanese. The Japanese cannot compete with them.

Only Outlet to Orient

Japan's logical outlet is to the Occident. Here she sees land that is by Japanese standards sparsely settled, she sees a high economic standard, high wages and great opportunities. Her people, who will not colonize Korea and Formosa, are willing to colonize America.

It is a part of the ironic international tangle which brings our broadest principles into conflict with those of Japan time and again, even against our will, that the United States should stand out of all the western nations as the one with whom this immigration problem must be settled. There is much more land, and land much more thinly settled, in the vast British dominions of Canada and Australia. Obeying the natural laws of race movement, the Japanese would turn to these lands before they turned to our Pacific coast. But complicating the natural laws of race movement, stand the British navy and the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Moreover the Japanese feel that the British colonies are only following the lead of the United States in the question of exclusion, that to strike the root of the matter they must deal with it in the United States.

Pan-America Comes In

An even more natural field for Japanese expansion lies to the south of us, in Central and South America, as well as in Mexico. Japanese are flowing slowly but steadily into these regions, where they are not excluded. They have not yet assumed the proportions of a problem, but it seems inevitable that they will. What will be the upshot of such a situation?

The first South American country to exclude the Japanese will come into conflict with Japan. To whom will South America look for support in the unequal conflict? Suppose Japan resorts to force. What of the Monroe doctrine then?

The collision of necessity and of principle arises at every turn. The problem is not one to settle itself with time. It is one that calls more loudly for settlement as time passes. It is not only our national problem, it is a world-problem. Certain it is that Japan must find her outlet. She is one of the great nations of the earth; she must have room to live her life and do her work in the world. On the other hand, we cannot let the road of her destiny lead over the ruins of our principles and our institutions. It is a very real dilemma, and until it is solved we must be prepared for any contingency.

A Great Discovery.

Swollen hands, ankles, feet are due to a dropsical condition, often caused by disordered kidneys. Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists; or under the eyes in bag-like formations.

As a remedy for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation caused by uric acid—as scalding urine, backache and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gout, it is simply wonderful how quickly "Anuric" acts; the pains and stiffness rapidly disappear.

The very best possible way to take care of yourself is to take a glass of hot water before meals and "Anuric," the discovery of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y.

Step into any drug store and ask for a 50c package of "Anuric," which is many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

Indigestion, constipation, biliousness and many ailments of the digestive organs are often the source of serious illness. At the first sign of disordered conditions take the reliable family remedy that is always dependable—

The Searchlight

SERMONS BY TELEPHONE

A large church in Passaic, N. J., has put one of the ideas of the late Edward Bellamy, author of "Looking Backward", into practical effect. It has recently connected a telephone with the house of one of its oldest members, an old lady now physically unable to reach the church which she had attended regularly for over a half century. A special telephone transmitter is placed on the pulpit and the connections are so well arranged that it is possible for a number of persons, grouped around the receiver, to hear not only the sermon but every sound in the church music, in a house over a mile from the church.

JESS WILLARD TO VISIT LA CROSSE

Sells-Floto circus, Buffalo Bill Wild West, Champion Shows of the World, is to exhibit here on July 25. Advertising car No. 1 was in the city this morning and a small army of billposters and other advertising men were busy spreading the glad news.

Incidentally, the definite statement was made that Jess Willard, "heavyweight champion of the world," would be with the circus. The cowboy champion is to appear in the arena in cowboy costume, heading the Buffalo Bill Wild West cowboys. And, despite his enormous stature, he is credited with being one of the most daring and expert rough riders that the west has produced. Long before he made a bid for the honors and rewards of the fistic arena, he had won prizes and distinction as a roper and rider, and was considered an exceptionally clever man in a roundup.

In the Sells-Floto circus Willard will not pose as a "visitor," but will take an active part in the performance. Not only will he be introduced in his original role of cowboy, but in ring costume he will illustrate with one of his sparring partners how he won the championship from Jack Johnson, and also show some of the punches given in his latest fight at Madison Square Garden with Frank Moran.

Frank Gotch, the Hercules of the universe, will demonstrate how he has conquered all contestants.

Many other notable attractions will be with the Sells-Floto circus to go toward making up an all-champion program with this champion of the world.

GET INTO THE 1,000 ROLE OF HONOR

The first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, in the High School auditorium Friday evening, promises to afford a wonderful spectacle. Probably for the first time it will mass all the various civic and business elements and interests in a single hall with a common purpose. To urge attendance is quite unnecessary.

Indeed, there remains but one plea of importance. The Chamber of Commerce membership is a little short of 1,000. The story of La Crosse's achievement, outstandingly the greatest in the history of the United States, will go forth to the world. It will be published in the journal of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, going to over 600 chambers of commerce and to thousands of their members; it will find space and comment in magazines and newspapers throughout the country. To get the force that comes with four figures and round numbers, we MUST get the full thousand.

The chamber has not absorbed all the memberships it can legitimately expect. Throughout the city are many young men and women whose interest in civic affairs and whose financial independence warrants their entering the organization. The Municipal band has suggested a new idea by taking a membership for its group as well as those individually entered. Nothing conceivable can give such organizations more prestige than such membership, and no money spent from their treasuries will pay better dividends, and it is hoped that other societies will follow the idea in time to be counted in the original honor role of of 1,000.

RECKLESS SPEEDING IN LA CROSSE ENDS

Almost every man who was arraigned Saturday for speeding feels abused because of the palpable fact that the real speed fiends of La Crosse have thus far escaped apprehension, while those brought into court were of the less reckless class of drivers who only to a moderate extent exceed the speed limit.

But has any one of them who admits he was violating the law any just cause for complaint? That more flagrant violators exist—is that an excuse for any man to break the law? This is a country in which the people make the laws. The defendants are of the people, and each participates in responsibility for such laws as exist. There is some justice in the objection that men have a right to know that they are charged with offenses with such promptitude as to enable them to say from memory that they were or were not, and the man who is honestly in doubt may fairly complain that his day in court was a fraud upon him, but if there be any who interpose this plea as a mere subterfuge to cloud guilt of which they are clearly conscious, their conduct is plain dishonesty.

No man who travels our streets but knows that there are drivers who menace safety, not only of pedestrians, but of other automobile occupants. These men know the condition should cease, and it is the manly part for any citizen charged with a traffic offense of which he is guilty to forthwith strengthen the hand of the administration by acknowledging the delinquency.

Our police have been slow to enforce many laws governing the conduct of respectable members of society, but it can not be said of them that, once a program is adopted, they falter in its execution. And now it may as well be understood that promiscuous and hazardous speeding in La Crosse is a thing of the past. Gentlemen, we suggest the admonition of "Joe", the "Mascot" of the Wisconsin field hospital, directed at the driver of a Ford car which was taking this redoubtable parrot to Camp Douglas:

"Go easy!"

A LONG STRIDE TO THE FRONT

The organization of the Municipal band and its prompt application for a membership in the Chamber of Commerce is a most interesting evidence that La Crosse is "getting together". Close competition has created considerable rivalry between different musical organizations, but today they are fully awake to the fact that they have so many interests in common with each other and with the rest of the community, that both pleasure and advantage counsel co-operation. To a large extent the leading musicians of the South side already are working together so far as brass is concerned, and a still closer association is possible.

While that organization has not applied for a Chamber of Commerce membership, the North side band has won a warm place in the community and can be trusted to give full consideration to its opportunities and obligations. The volunteer service done by this band, when our militiamen were called into service, was as fine a display of patriotic citizenship and community spirit as may be witnessed.

PEACE SEEMS TO SHINE UPON US

There is considerable reassurance in the present status of the Mexican situation. While it may not fully satisfy, the Carranza note displays a new amiability, showing that the mobilization of the militia has not been in vain. On the other hand, the movement of American troops in Mexico, whether it be for withdrawal or merely for redistribution, will go far to satisfy the de facto government. With a president who desires peace, and with a duly impressed diplomatic antagonist, there is now a fair chance that the United States will be able to remain at peace.

Good news, indeed, to the parents and relatives of the men who have been called from their homes to serve their country's emergency, and every true American hopes that the brightest prospects of the situation will be realized. However, it is better to be not too sure of peace, lest a new and grievous disappointment come. For today it is enough to console ourselves that the outlook is bright.

Father Agreed

Softly shone the moon on the idyllic scene. The sea shone in the silver splendor; and the seaweed on the rock elbow smelt strong.

On the top of the cliff sat a lover and his lass. His arb was around her waist, while she rested her head modestly on his watch pocket.

"Darling," he said, ecstatically, "when I think that you love me I feel so—so proud! I am so unworthy of you!"

She drew a sigh of bliss somewhere near her suede shoes and answered:

"Oh, Herbert, if only you and father agreed on every point as well as you do on that one how happy we should be!"—Answers.

Correct

"My friends," exclaimed the eloquent minister, "were the average man to turn and look himself squarely in the eyes and ask himself what he really needed most, what would be the first reply to his mind?"

"A rubber neck," shouted the precocious urchin in the rear of the room.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Outside the Law

A Scottish farmer was telling an Irish neighbor of his with great pride how he had planted an acorn which sprang up into a fine oak tree.

"Begorra, that's nothing," commented Pat, unimpressed. "Sure an' I once planted a dead cat and in a short time up sprang a sanitary inspector."

Proved

The Sunday school teacher was not satisfied with Ellen's unsupported assertion that she had been christened in orthodox manner.

"How do you know you have?" she asked.

"Because I've got the marks on my arm," said Ellen.

Satiety

"There is no such word," said the philosopher, "as 'don't,' in the logic of things. For to say 'Don't do this!' means that we must do something else. 'Don't' cannot evade doing—it merely diverts it to another form of deed. 'Don't' shapes human action, day after day, just as surely as"—

"Oh, don't talk so much!" cried the philosopher's wife despairingly.—Life.

Cause and Effect

"What has become of that 'Don't worry club' you once helped to organize?"

"Everybody refused to worry. The club got in debt and had to disband."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Niksah)

TOULOUSE

Toulouse is one of the few old cities that do not seem to feel the weight of years. Most towns with a long stirring history are content to sit and point to it with pride instead of furnishing amusements and hotel accommodations. Toulouse has a story to compare with that of the oldest and most aristocratic of cities, but in spite of it she is as wide awake as some metropolis founded in 1887 a hundred miles west of the Mississippi. Certain super-esthetic visitors see fit now and then to condemn her for this, but it is hard to deal harshly with a city that insists on having a future in spite of having a past.

So the dust of the ghosts and the plumbing arrangements of past centuries are not conspicuous in Toulouse. There is an atmosphere of keyed-up industrial efficiency which tells the experienced appraiser of cities that there is not much cheap real estate to be had in the business district. They are making shrapnel in Toulouse today. They make cigars that cause the traveler to think regretfully of the days when he was in the United States of America and in touch with Havana. They also make pastry that moves him to wish that the angels will have the recipe when he gets to heaven. They do not obtrude their antiques and their relics.

Without looking for them, however, you stumble on many old and stately mansions that clearly belong to a vanished past, with their fretwork of carved stone, their high, deep windows, their sculptured coats of arms. There are churches too, whose cool quiet naves are still with the silence of centuries, whose flags are worn by the feet of uncounted generations of worshippers. Now and again you may even find a native who is not too busy to tell you bits of the story of the old city, which in its day was the stronghold of the most powerful nobles in France.

CHAPTER I
Introducing Her

None but the residents consider Mount Mark, Iowa, much of a town, and those who are honest among them admit, although reluctantly, that Mount Mark can boast of far more patriotism than good judgment! But the very most patriotic of them all has no word of praise for the ugly little red C., B. & Q. railway station. If pretty is as pretty does, as we have been told so unpleasantly often, then the station is handsome enough, but as an ornament to the commonwealth it is a dismal failure—low, smoky and dust-grimed. In winter its bleakness and bareness add to the chill of the rigorous Iowa temperature, and in summer the sap oozing through the boards is disagreeably suggestive of perspiration. The waiting-room itself is "cleaned" every day, and yet the same dust lies in the corners where it has lain for lo, these many years. And as for the cobwebs, their chief distinction lies in their ripe old age. If there were only seven spiders in the park, after the subsiding of the waters, at least a majority of them must have found their way to Mount Mark station in Southeastern Iowa.

Mount Mark is anything but proud of the little station. It openly scoffs at it, and sniffs contemptuously at the ticket agent who bears the entire C., B. & Q. reputation upon his humble shoulders. At the same time, it certainly does owe the railroad and the state a debt of gratitude for its presence there. It is the favorite social rendezvous for the community! Only four passenger trains daily pass through Mount Mark—not including the expresses, which rush haughtily by with no more than a scornful whistle for the sleepy town, and in return for this indignity, Mount Mark cherishes a most unchristian antipathy toward those demon fliers.

But the "passengers"—ah, that is a different matter. The arrival of a passenger train in Mount Mark is an event—something in the nature of a C., B. & Q. "at Home," and is always attended by a large and enthusiastic gathering of "our best people." All that is lacking are the proverbial "light refreshments."

So it happened that one sultry morning, late in the month of August, there was the usual flutter of excitement and confusion on the platform and in the waiting-room of the station. The habitues were there in force. Conspicuous among them were four gaily dressed young men, smoking cigarettes and gazing with lack-luster eyes upon the animated scene, which evidently bored them. All the same, they invariably appeared at the depot to witness this event, stirring to others, no doubt, but incapable of arousing the interest of these life-weary youths. They comprised the Slaughter-house Quartette, and were the most familiar and notorious characters in all the town.

The Daily News reporter, in a well-creased, light gray suit and tan shoes, and with eye-glasses scientifically balanced on his aquiline nose, was making pointed inquiries into the private plans of the travelers. The Daily News reporters in Mount Mark always wear well-creased, light gray suits and tan shoes, and always have eye-glasses scientifically balanced on aquiline noses. The uninitiated can not understand how it is managed, but there lies the fact. Perhaps the News includes these decants. Possibly it furnishes the gray suits and the tan shoes, and even the tails in its requirements of applieye-glasses. Of course, the reporters can practice balancing them scientifically—but how does it happen that they always have aquiline noses? At any rate, that is the Mount Mark type. It never varies.

The young woman going to Burlington to spend the week-end was surrounded with about fifteen other young women who had come to "see her off." She had relatives in Burlington and went there very often, and she used to say she was glad she didn't have to exchange Christmas presents with all the "friends" who witnessed her arrivals and departures at the station. Mount Mark is a very respectable town, be it understood, and girls do not go to the station without an excuse!

The Adams Express wagon was drawn close to the track, and the agent was rushing about with a breathless energy which seemed all out of proportion to his accomplishments. The telegraph operator was gazing earnestly out of his open window, and his hands were busily moving papers from one pigeon-hole to another, and back again. Old Harvey Reel, who drove the hotel bus, was discussing politics with the man who kept the restaurant, and the baggage master, superior and supremely dirty, was checking baggage with his almost unendurably lordly air.

This was one of the four daily rejuvenations that gladdened the heart of Mount Mark.

A man in a black business suit stood alone on the platform, his hands in his pockets, his eyes wandering from one to another of the strange faces about him. His plain white ready-made tie proclaimed his calling.

"It's the new Methodist preacher," volunteered the baggage master, crossing the platform, ostensibly on business bound, but really to see "who all" was there. "I know him. He's not a bad sort."

"They say he's got five kids, and most of 'em girls," responded the Adams Express man. "I've ordered me a dress suit to pay my respects in when they get here. I want to be on hand early to pick me out a girl."

"Yah," mocked the telegraph operator, bobbing his head through the window, "you need to. They tell me every girl in Mount Mark has turned you down a'ready."

But the Methodist minister, gazing away down the track where a thin curl of smoke announced the coming of Number Nine, and Prudence—heard nothing of this conversation. He was not a handsome man. His hair was gray at the temples, his face was earnest, only saved from severity by the little clusters of lines at his eyes and mouth which proclaimed that he laughed often, and with relish.

"Train going east!"

The minister stood back from the crowd, but when the train came pounding in a brightness leaped into his eyes that entirely changed the expression of his face. A slender girl stood in the vestibule, leaning dangerously outward, and waving wildly at him a small gloved hand. When the train stopped she leaped lightly from the steps, ignoring the stool placed for her feet by the conductor.

"Father!" she cried excitedly and small and slight as she was, she elbowed her way swiftly through the gaping crowd. "Oh, father!" And she flung her arms about him joyously, unconscious of the admiring eyes of the Adams Express man, and the telegraph operator, and old Harvey Reel, whose eyes were always admiring when girls passed by. She did not even observe that the Slaughterhouse Quartette looked at her unanimously, with languid interest from out the wreaths of smoke they had created.

Her father kissed her warmly. "Where is your baggage?" he asked, a hand held out to relieve her.

"Here!" And with a radiant smile she thrust upon him a box of candy and a gaudy-covered magazine.

"Your suit-case," he explained patiently.

"Oh!" she gasped. "Run, father, run! I left it on the train!"

Father did run, but Prudence, fleeter-footed, out-distanced him and clambered on board, panting.

When she rejoined her father her face was flushed. "Oh, father," she said quite snappily, "isn't that just like me?"

"Yes, very like," he agreed, and he smiled. "Where is your umbrella?"

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN

Octavia Handworth will be remembered by many who were interested in the movies before they were so good as many of them are now. She dropped out of sight several years ago. This was when she left America to appear in pictures and on the stage in Europe.

For several years very few pictures made abroad have been able to compete with those made in America.

Now Miss Handworth is returning. She is cast for important roles in some of the new chapters of "Who's Guilty?"

Brand New Plot In "Ostrich Plumes"

One of the seven wonders of southern California, the Cawston ostrich farm, has been used by the David Horsley company for exteriors of a two-reel drama named "Ostrich Plumes." The title may be changed. At this institution there are more than 500 ostriches. In one scene the beautiful birds of the desert literally kick a "man" to pieces when he is thrown into the lot in which they are kept. In another instance, the heroine, Margaret Gibson, rode one of the large birds to secure help to prevent a riot.

The story pertains to an order received by a plume manufacturer prescribing a particular shade. The foreman of his dyeing department is unable to secure the tint, and tries to induce an old English dyer to tell him the necessary dyes needed to secure the peculiar shade. This is refused, and the old English dyer is employed. The foreman causes dissatisfaction among the other employes and they bodily eject the old man. It is at this point that he is cast into the den of the kickers, and the daughter rides for help.

All Wrong

Vivian Martin's writing is picturesque, but not easily read. She wrote a friend from the mountains where she has been making "Nell of Thunder Mountain."

The friend thought she wrote that she had learned to "cook pine cones."

That was wrong. The friend got it right when Mistress Martin wrote again explaining that it isn't "pine cones" she learned to cook, but "corn pones."

Octavia Handworth.

Paramount releases for July include Peggy Hyland in "By Right of Sex," Hazel Dawn in "Her First Consignment," Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgley in "The Taming of Helen," Dustin Farnum in "Davy Crockett," Blanche Sweet in "The Dupe," Rita Jolivet in "An International Marriage," Marguerite Clark in "The Little Lady Eileen" and Louise Huff in "When Shadows Fall."

Betty Hart, movie beauty, winces whenever she hears the sound of breaking china. She says it reminds her of breaking hearts, the chief difference of course being that broken hearts can be mended so easily.

VERSE and REVERSE

The Modern Suffragette

She does not look as once she did, a change we cannot fail to note;
The bloom of youth has come upon the woman who demands the vote.
Remember what she used to be? An ancient damsel with a face
That would upset the old town clock when she spoke in a public place.
An old poke bonnet, grim black dress and side curls that defiance screamed;
Of straight-front corsets, Marcel waves and picture hats she never dreamed.
She used to shout a wild harangue and pound the table with her fist,
As she demanded women's rights and placed all men on Satan's list.
Of course she did her best, but somehow men refused to fall
For her insurgent arguments delivered in the old town hall.

How different a creature is the dainty modern suffragette,
With pleasant smile and piles of hair surmounted with a trim aigret.
Experience has made her wise; she's not defiant any more;
And, planning her franchise, campaign, she first goes to the dry goods store.
Her arguments are of the kind she knows will jolly men along.
She fixes it so they can't fail to listen to her siren song.
She doesn't hire the old town hall and vain abuse and satire reel,
But at the quiet fireside now she makes her eloquent appeal.
She doesn't fret or fume or fuss.
She's going to win out some day, for she certainly looks good to us.

ARE REJECTED SOLDIERS STILL NATIONAL GUARDS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—Are the men rejected by the federal surgeons and discharged from active service following the muster of the Wisconsin guard into the United States army, automatically dismissed from further service for the state? This is a problem which Wisconsin National Guard officers have so far been unable to decide for themselves.

Under the federal law creating the United States National guard out of the separate state guards the men rejected are returned to their home posts by the state and paid for their time by the state. They are given honorable discharge from the United States service, but whether this frees them from answering future calls by the state, is not known.

The members of that part of the guard accepted for service, when they return to the state will be permitted to return to their usual walks of life just as though they were in the state service. They will be subject to call by the nation for active service for three years and as reserves for three years mor.

Royalty Celebrates Golden Wedding

LONDON, July 5.—An event which, in "the days before the war," would have been the occasion for an interesting celebration, but which in these days of national strife and turmoil was permitted to pass almost unnoticed, was the golden wedding anniversary today of the Prince and Princess Christian. The Princess is a daughter of the late Queen Victoria and an aunt of the present king.

No member of the British royal family has been more active in relief work during the present great conflict than has Princess Christian, who many years ago earned the sobriquet of "the royal nurse". Her many years of practical experience in relieving the sufferings of the poor, added to her experience in executive work as president of the Royal British Nurses' association, eminently qualified her to take a leading part in the organized relief work of the present war. She attends daily meetings of innumerable committees, and insists upon threshing out every detail of the work in which they are engaged. Frequently, too, she pays prolonged surprise visits to the hospitals and relief stations in London and vicinity, and, in fact, seems to consider it to be her duty to take the Army Medical Department itself under her wing.

Niece of Washington Stirs up Excitement

WASHINGTON, July 5.—A grand niece of Martha Washington stirred up some excitement at the White house Monday. The wife of Representative Cullop of Indiana, as head of the Women's National Democratic league, had just tendered the president $1,000 for campaign purposes, when the grand-niece, Mrs. Frank B. Moran of this city, intervened.

She startled the democratic ladies who acompanied Mrs. Cullop by telling the president that the whole four million women voters of the country would be against him if he did not do something for women suffrage. A six months' trip through the west had convinced her, she said.

Young People's Union Meets in Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., July 5.—To the inspiring strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," an army of loyal Baptists of the United States and Canada, young and old but mostly young, is marching into Chicago for the international convention of their organization, which will begin its sessions here tomorrow. Already the hotels are crowded with delegates and visitors.

An attractive four-day program has been prepared for the gathering. The president, Rev. Frank L. Anderson, will make his annual address. "Reminiscences" will be given by Dr. John H. Chapman and other noted leaders of the union. The annual sermon will be preached by Rev. E. Y. Mullins. Dean Shailer Mathews, Joseph Kearing of Canada and a number of other men of wide reputation will deliver address. The reports of the several officers prepared for presentation to the convention will show a steady gain made by the organization in membership and influence during the past twelve months.

POLES TO PRESS AID REQUESTS

CHICAGO, July 5.—A delegation of prominent Poles, headed by Ignaz Paderewski, the noted pianist, will call upon President Wilson at the White house within a week to ask him to aid them in getting food to the starving people of Poland.

BISHOP OLDHAM TO GIVE THREE TALKS HERE THIS WEEK

Bishop William F. Oldham, D. D. L. L. D., who is to speak in the First German Methodist church Thursday evening, has consented to stay over Friday in the city and will speak in the West Avenue Methodist church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock and in the First Methodist church, corner King and Eighth streets, Friday evening.

Bishop Oldham was born in India and was missionary bishop for a number of years, and was the first missionary to establish mission work in Malaysia. He left the active work on the field for more important and difficult service on the board of foreign missions at home.

At the last general conference he was elected bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, and has been assigned to South America.

His coming to La Crosse offers an unusual privilege.

"Health Is the First Wealth"

The rich man suffering from asthmatic or pulmonary trouble knows this even better than the poor man thus afflicted. Either may be able to obtain relief by using Eckman's Alterative, a preparation containing calcium chlorid, which for more than twenty years has been giving widespread satisfaction in such cases.

Of course, its use should be seconded by rest, pure food and fresh air, for no medicine can be of much help where these provisions of Nature are not made use of. But in numerous instances where they has not produced desired results, Eckman's alterative has furnished the missing link in the chain.

It contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs, so a trial is safe.

22,000 NEW YORK GUARDSMEN FIXED AT BROWNSVILLE

General Funston and Staff Busy Disposing Militiamen on Tactical Basis Along the Border

"SLACKERS" NO MORE

Judge, in San Antonio to Try Revolting Guardsmen, Finds Most of the Men Enlisted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 5.—The big movement of national guardsmen to the border continued today and General Funston and his staff disposed the state troops on a tactical basis as fast as they arrived.

The exact destinations of other units are not given out here but it is known that about 18,000 New York guardsmen will be stationed in the Brownsville district. The First cavalry squadron and the Second artillery company of that state passed through there late yesterday.

Four of the forty-five new truck companies ordered are expected to be delivered this week. They comprise thirty-three trucks to the company. From a half to two dozen carloads of horses are arriving daily and it is estimated that 10,000 horses will be here by the end of the week.

Major Balntin Winshop, judge advocate, who came here from Fort Leavenworth to try the "slackers" in the Texas national guard, is finding it hard to locate anybody to try. Among the recruits, who arrived here yesterday, were twenty-five of those listed for court martial for failing to respond when the Texas militia was called out.

The First Maryland infantry, enroute to Eagle Pass, passed through here after midnight, but there was a delegation of women at the station to greet them. The guardsmen were aroused by cries of "Welcome, Maryland. Wake up, boys!" and served with huge quantities of sandwiches, fruit and soda pop.

No Details

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Luckenbach Steamship company said today they had no details of the collision in the channel by which the Jacob Luckenbach, one of their fleet, was sunk.

WEATHER CONDITIONS IN WISCONSIN

Week ending with Monday, July 3, 1916. Issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau.

"This was the most favorable week experienced so far this season. The days were warm, especially in the latter part of the week when many stations in the southern counties recorded maximum temperatures above 90 degrees, and the temperature remained moderately high throughout the nights. There was abundant sunshine and but little rain in the southern part of the state, one or two stations reporting that more rain would be beneficial, but the northern half had some heavy rains generally ranging from 2 to 4 inches for the week, much more than was needed. In a few localities thunderstorms were accompanied by hail but no extensive damage resulted from this cause.

"The warm weather was very favorable for all crops but especially to corn, which made a remarkable improvement during the week. It is still late and backward but with favorable weather from now it will come forward rapidly. Considerable corn land has been plowed up and sown to buckwheat. Potatoes have advanced well and look much better. Small grains are in fine condition generally and in some of the southwestern counties the early fields are beginning to ripen. Barley is reported to be heading well and has improved in color.

"Hay cutting progressed rapidly in the southern part of the state where the clover is nearly all cut. The timothy cutting will begin immediately. The first crop of alfalfa has been secured and the second crop is growing rapidly. Rains in the northern part of the state delayed the hay cutting which was begun during the week. Tobacco setting was completed and the plants are doing well.

"Pea canning will be in progress during the coming week at the numerous canning factories and a good output is expected.

"Cranberries improved during the week and are expected to be in good condition. Strawberries are plentiful and of good quality."

To Keep Your Baby Perfectly Well This Summer

1. Keep the baby cool.
2. Keep him outdoors as much as possible.
3. Give him plenty of boiled water.
4. Consult your doctor at the first sign of illness.
5. Make his food light. Don't give him raw cow's milk with its heavy, indigestible curd—and its germs of summer complaint, that kills more babies than any other cause in the world.

Nurse your baby if you can. If you can't, give him the food that's as safe from germs—and as light—as mother's milk itself—

Nestlé's Food
(A Complete Food—Not a Milk Modifier)

Nestlé's is safe—free from dangers of raw cow's milk.

In Nestlé's you get milk from healthy cows, purified—free from germs—the calf needs are modified, the baby needs are added. Reduced to powder—it comes to you in an air-tight can. No hand has touched it—no germ can reach it. It is a complete food—so you add only water and boil one minute—and you know that you are giving your baby the food his little body needs.

Don't shock your baby's stomach by changing him from your breast milk to raw cow's milk. In Nestlé's he will feel no change.

Bryce made a direct reply to a letter recently sent him from America urging that he use his best efforts in behalf of peace. He answered that Germany is not willing to agree to any reasonable settlement at the present time.

Many housewives have found a happy solution of the breakfast problem in New Post Toasties.

These new corn flakes are distinctive in that they bear a self-developed flavor all their own—the delicate, fascinating flavor of choice, white Indian corn. Unlike other flakes, they do not depend on cream and sugar to make them palatable.

Try a handful without cream and sugar—note the fine flavor and new form; also the tiny "bubbles" on each flake. These bubbles are a distinguishing characteristic and are produced by the quick, intense heat of the new process of making, which also brings out the wonderful flavor.

Although the New Post Toasties are a great improvement in flavor and form, they cost no more than ordinary flakes. Have a package delivered for tomorrow's breakfast.

points last night in heavy fighting between the Ancre and the Somme, General Haig, British commander-in-chief, reported today.

At Thiepval (northeast of Albert) two determined enemy attacks were repulsed, the enemy suffering heavy losses, said the official statement.

After Third Defense Line

The supreme offensive of the allied armies on the western front has entered its second phase with British and French guns preparing the way for another infantry rush against the German lines.

The guns that broke down German defensive works and cleared the path for the attack launched last Saturday have been moved up and are directing a terrific cannonade against the German third line of defenses. The artillerying spread along a wide front yesterday.

Opposite the British front the German artillery is making a stronger reply than during last week's cannonading. German reserves continue to press forward to reinforce the Somme lines. Thus far the kaiser has not shifted troops at any other sector of the western front to meet the allied attack. The reinforcement, it is believed, are coming from the central reserve supply, which the German general staff in the past had shifted from one front to the other in successful offensives.

On practically all fronts where the allied armies are now engaged in the "great squeeze", the offensives have settled down from spectacular strokes to the systematic grinding in of the Austro-German lines.

Slav Advance Rapid

The Russians alone, now threatening to break out in an offensive along their entire 800 mile front and reported already to have invaded Hungary, are counting their progress by miles each day.

The Italians are making steady, but very slow progress in their offensive against the Austrians in the Trentino.

Thus far the French, operating in the allied offensive, have occupied about four times as much territory, captured more prisoners and generally have appeared more successful than the British north of the Somme. The reasons for the greater French successes as explained today are as follows:

The Germans assumed that the French were so busy at Verdun that they would be unable to participate in a joint offensive. They made no unusual preparations to meet a French attack, but with knowledge of the extensive British preparations, they strengthened their lines opposite the British front.

North of the Somme, the British are attacking German lines of communication, far stronger than those to the south, where French guns already have disorganized the German transport system to some extent by shelling the roads leading from Peronne. The ground of the Somme is more difficult for an advance, according to British experts than is the region where the French are operating. Lastly, the English feel that the Germans desire to deal their most effective blow against the British armies for the purpose of appeasing popular clamor in Germany, impressing neutrals and possibly creating a demand for peace in England.

Germans Drive Russians

BERLIN, July 5.—A notable victory for the Teutonic forces in Galicia was announced by the war office Tuesday.

South east of Tlumach, by a speedy thrust, the Russians were forced back on a front of more than twelve and one-half miles to a depth of more than five and one-quarter miles.

Petrograd Reports Gains

PETROGRAD, July 5.—In an attack on the forces of Prince Leopold, the war office announced on Tuesday, the Russians have broken through two lines of German defenses in the region of Baranovichi. They captured seventy-two officers, 2,700 men, eleven guns and a number of machine guns.

Russians Repulsed

BERLIN, July 5.—In stubborn hand-to-hand fighting German troops under Prince Leopold of Bavaria have repulsed the Russians near Baranovitschi, inflicting severe losses, the war office announced this afternoon.

Berlin Reports Violent Fighting

BERLIN, July 5.—A violent battle is raging on both sides of the Somme where the allies are pushing their offensive, it was officially announced this afternoon.

RICHARDSON TAKES COMMAND AT CLOSE OF PERFECT FOURTH

the secretary of war and the governor of Wisconsin, he, Larrain T. Richardson, has been given the command. Give attention to this, these orders."

Reads Orders

Then the general read the following:

"Special orders No. 73, extract 1—Lorrain T. Richardson, major, infantry, U. S. A., of Janesville, Wis., having been commissioned brigadier-general, Wisconsin National guard with rank from July 4, 1916, and having duly qualified under said commission as required by law, is hereby assigned to command theFirst brigade of infantry, Wisconsin National guard.

"By command of the governor,

"ORLANDO HOLWAY,

"The Adjutant General, Chief of Staff.

"Official: John G. Salsman, adjutant general."

As he finished everyone broke into cheers and began madly clapping their hands. The soldiers swayed and rocked in their enthusiasm for several minutes. In the meantime General King pinned the insignia of his office upon the shoulders of General Richardson.

Flag is Lowered

As the noise of the cheering subsided General Holway raised his hand for silence. Retreat was sounded by a bugler, the gun boomed once and while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner," the national colors were slowly lowered from the staff beside headquarters.

While the troops dispersed officers of rank mounted to the porch to congratulate General Richardson on his promotion.

General King arrived during the afternoon and was greeted with a salute of eleven guns. He was the guest of General Holway, for the night.

At noon 48 guns were fired as a salute to the flag. As they boomed out the echoes could be heard reverberating from cliff to cliff behind the rifle range. The range was kept rattling all morning with machine gun fire so that the camp had all the sound of a city on an old fashioned Fourth of July.

Supplies May Go First

The First regiment seems further away than ever from moving. On Tuesday three days' rations were drawn by the supply command and divided among the companies. Some take it as an indication that the supply company will leave first.

Usually five days 'traveling rations are issued when a regiment is moved. An order has come from the commander of the central department, however, that the Wisconsin regiments be given ten days' rations. The troops already in the south have taken all the available food and the excess taken will keep the men until established in camp.

Many are Rejected

An official report of the number rejected in the First regiment Tuesday night was 296 out of 1,521 enlisted men. This is 19.4 per cent. Several men may yet be accepted reducing the percentage considerably. The number rejected by companies now is: A 22, B 21, C 17, D(Milwaukee) 20, E (Milwaukee) 30, F (Milwaukee) 28, H 15, I 32, K (Milwaukee) 30, L 24, M 26, Machine Gun (Milwaukee) 3, Supply (Milwaukee) 2, mounted orderlies 3, band 5.

If final lists of the rejected are received Wednesday morning arms can be distributed by night. The rejected men will be sent home at once.

Superior Gets Flag

The Third regiment had a Fourth of July celebration of its own at 4 o'clock. Company I, Superior, Wis., was presented with a large silk American flag by the ladies of Superior. The service was held on the parade grounds. Chaplain George A. Longbrake, La Crosse, offered an invocation. Mrs. Harry Rogers, Superior, presented the flag to Captain Alexander W. Fluegel. The captain responded with a speech of acceptance. By courtesy of Colonel R. A. Richards the colors were then placed in front of the regimental headquarters and remained there until retreat.

Purchase Mounts

Several Superior women were visitors in the camp on Tuesday. They were Mrs. J. B. French, wife of Judge French; Mrs. Martin Ackerson, wife of Captain Ackerson; Mrs. David August, Mrs. O. K. Anderson and Mrs. F. C. Tomlinson; Mrs. R. A. Richards, wife of Colonel Richards, returned to camp with her husband, who gave the Fourth of July address at Mauston, near Camp Douglas. Mrs. J. W. Hommel, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Hommel, is living near the camp until the regiments departs.

Captain Daniel Remington, Mauston of the Third regiment supply company, has purchased a new mount as have Colonel Richards, Lieutenant Colonel Hommel, Captain Longbrake and several other officers. They will take them south.

TWO AT CAMP REFUSE TO TAKE OATHS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—The Supply company of the First infantry regiment, the last company to be mustered into the United States army, brought out the first two men who asked to be excused. Two privates, both Polish and unable to speak hardly a word of English, stepped from the line and pleaded that they are needed at home.

The rest of the company was mustered in and the two men were taken to brigade headquarters where the oath was explained. They persisted in their pleading, however, and were locked in the guard house over night to protect them from the anger of their comrades. It is probable they will be sent home.

Stage Minstrel Show

ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN MEXICO, July 4, via Radio to Columbus, N. M., July 5.—An American army celebrated the Fourth of July in Mexico for the second time in two years, the previous one being in Vera Cruz.

General Pershing ordered a holiday in camp. Festivities started at daylight with a march through the camp streets, fifty buglers from different regiments blowing reveille.

Athletic events took place in an artificial amphitheater made by the soldiers in an immense hollow square with a shoe race starting the program.

Hundreds of barefoot soldiers wrestled and fought in the center of the hollow, each hunting for his pair of shoes, at the same time throwing the others high in the air. A sack race, a centipede race, between "Centipedes" from a dozen companies with ten men astride of a long pole and three greased pig catching contests completed that part of the show.

In the evening the Twenty-fourth colored infantry regiment staged a minstrel show.

GUARDS MAY BE BACK WITHIN FOUR MONTHS

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Satff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Unless untoward events develop, militiamen new stationed on the border, or rushing there, probably will be back in their homes within the next four months. How to fill their places, however, is a problem to which President Wilson and army men are giving serious consideration.

Military men say police work along the border is strictly the regular army's job and that the administration must hearken to the inevitable protests of guardsmen against any long continued border service.

Moreover, General Pershing's forces doubtless will be back on the border within a brief time, for there is no good military reason for continuing them where they are now, it is privately admitted.

When the militia is removed, a larger regular army force doubtless will be needed for police duty.

POLICE NAB BICYCLIST BY WHOLESALE AND LONE AUTO SPEEDER YESTERDAY

While the arrest of one speeder ecnstituted the police haul of automobile regulations violators yesterday the department ordered twenty-five men and boys, for the most part under the age of fifteen, to appear at central station this morning for failing to comply with city ordinances compelling lights and bells on bicycles.

The ante-room of the station this morning was lined with lads of various ages. They were severely lectured by Chief of Police John B. Webber, told to procure the necessary equipment for their wheels and sent home.

Thirty speed violators will be arraigned before Police Justice Clintan W. Hunt late this afternoon. In the second speeders' party will be several persons who for various reasons were unable to appear with the initial eleven speeders. In the group will also be many persons who have been arrested since the eleven were fined.

BORDER MILITARY MEN LOOK FOR WITHDRAWAL

BY WEBB C. MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

COLUMBUS, N. M., July 5.—Among military men here today the feeling is growing that orders will be given in a short time for the withdrawal of the American expedition from Mexico, providing President Carranza makes no hostile move.

However, no step which could be interpreted as preliminary to withdrawal, has been taken, from appearances here. All roads along the expedition's communication lines are still being repaired and supplies are piling up in the American camps.

Unofficial information reaching here is to the effect that General Pershing personally favors withdrawal if there is to be no intervention. Establishment of heavy border garrisons and patrols to guard against bandit raids would probably mean retirement from Mexico. In this connection it is stated that the militia would probably be held on the border indefinitely.

The western Massachusetts militiamen stationed in Columbus are to be put through a strict course of training beginning today.

MOVIE BENEFITS MAY BE GIVEN IN LA CROSSE FOR DEPENDENT FAMILIES

Benefit movies, in which an endeavor will be made to secure pictures of Wisconsin troops at Camp Douglas, and other entertainments may be resorted to in La Crosse for securing funds for the dependent families of La Crosse national guardsmen, now mustered into the regular United States army.

This plan was one of many discussed at a meeting of local employers of guardsmen held at the office of Mayor Arthur A. Bentley at the city hall at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The meeting was called by the Citizens' Patriotic Protective association for the purpose of devising a plan to care for the families of soldiers not in the list of those who will receive their pay while absent in army service.

Mayor Bentley today received notice that seven such families were in severe circumstances.

COMMISSION TO CONSIDER FIRE CHIEF TONIGHT

The election of a new fire chief will be discussed, but may not be effected, at the meeting of the fire and police commission tonight.

Late today it was learned that before acting the commission will have to determine whether it can proceed to an election without subjecting the applicants to an examination. Opinion leaned toward the right of the commission to act without the examination.

While it is understood that there are a number of candidates for the position, it was stated this morning that no formal applications have been filed, nor did it appear from talk with the commissioners that they have agreed upon any candidate.

Finch Congratulates

That the campaign, which was closed Saturday is a record breaker, is confirmed in a letter which was received today from Will L. Finch of New York, one of the leading commercial organization authorities in the United States. In a letter of congratulation he said:

"I think there is no question about your campaign being the premier one in all respects in the history of campaign work."

Although the membership mark now stands at 966, members of the membership committees are determined that the mark shall go to 1,000 or more so that La Crosse will set a record that will not be equalled for years.

Would Set Great Example

"We want to set a mark here that will prove permanent nationwide advertisement for La Crosse," said one of the campaign committee today. "We want commercial organization men all over the country to refer to La Crosse as the ideal example of a Chamber of Commerce. Within a few weeks almost every organization in the entire country will have received information through trade journals or other commercial organization publications about the wonderful campaign at La Crosse. Already we have received letters congratulating us, and desiring information about it."

The campaign committee wants every one to have a chance to be a charter member of this new organization, and has requested the press to announce that persons desiring to join need not wait for a committee to call upon them. Such persons may call at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters in the basement of the La Crosse club and sign a membership blank there, or one will be sent to them by mail on request.

BURLINGTON MAN TALKS AT HEARING

Upon the resumption of the hearing in the shippers' case, W. J. Holley, assistant traffic manager of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, made a brief statement. The case was then adjourned until tomorrow morning, pending a decision as to the date for the submission of briefs.

Coke Case Follows

At 2:30 the second of the La Crosse cases was called by Examiner Pugh. This was docket 8642, in which the shippers allege that the coke rate from Indianapolis, Chicago, Peoria and Joliet is unreasonable and discriminatory. All four sections of the interstate commerce act are held by Mr. Boulton to be violated. The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, the Elgin, Joliet and Eastern, and the C. B. & Q., are involved.

ARSENAL WAGE DISPUTE FIXED

WASHINGTON, July 5.—A final settlement has been reached in the Rock Island arsenal wage dispute, it was learned at the war department today. Chicago has been included, with the tri-cities in the determining scale, and an increase of about 25 cents per day per man has been granted.

GOPHER FORCES MAY LEAVE SOON

CAMP BOBLETER, FORT SNELLING, July 5.—Lieutenant Colonel Arthur Johnson, U. S. A., in charge of preparations at Camp Bobleter, said that the First, Second and Third regiments of infantry and the Second battalion of the First regiment of light artillery are now reasonably prepared. He will so report to the war department as soon as supplies arrive, and surgeons finish medical examinations, which probably will be by the middle of this week.

The supplies, consisting of shoes, blankets and uniforms are expected to arrive from St. Louis within a few hours. The medical examinations are about half through.

Forty per cent of the Minnesota militia equipment was declared worthless yesterday by Captain Bernard Lentz of the regular army, after completing his inspection prior to taking over the state equipment for the government.

He said that if the government had to furnish equipment for the sixty-five men, the minimum peace requirement for each company, in addition to that for the excess now enlisted, that it would mean further delays in getting to the border.

A lot of women have an idea that men couldn't get on without them. They are right.

MINNESOTA FAIR ORGANIZES STATE BASEBALL LEAGUE

Minnesota is to have a championship baseball series that in point of enthusiasm and interest will rival the great World Series of 1916. This battle royal will be held under the auspices of the Minnesota state fair, and the games will be played at the fair grounds, September 4 to 9.

The Minnesota state fair has appropriated $450 for cash prizes. In addition, three handsome silver loving cups will be presented to the winning teams of the three divisions.

The teams will be classified according to the population of the cities they represent. The teams in Division A will be from cities having a population of more than 5,000; Division B will be composed of clubs representing cities of a population of 1,500 to 5,000, while all other towns will be classified in Division C.

Probably the hottest race of the season will be that of Division A, in which such cities as Hibbing, Albert Lea, Owatonna, Mankato, Faribault, St. Cloud, Bemidji, Brainerd, Duluth, Austin, Rochester, Winona and others will be entered. Practically all of these cities have fast teams in the field. Each year finds the teams of these cities claiming the state independent championship.

The contest will be open to all amateur and semi-professional teams in Minnesota, outside of the Twin Cities, where a number of leagues already have been organized.

The baseball director of the fair will keep a record of all games played by the teams in the state fair league after June 20 and until August 25. The clubs entitled to play for the championship at the fair will be selected according to the showing made by them.

The W. B. U. Athletes and Cashton divided the double holiday bill at League park, the Athletes winning the first game, 4 to 0. Cashton won the second game, 12 to 0 in five innings in a weird session. Both teams played errorless ball in the first mix.

Fay Copsey was invincible in the first game.. He held the Cashton men to six singles, retiring fourteen by the strikeout route. Ten bingles were made off Bell, Tanke hitting for two and three bases.

Robare was the hitting star of the game, hitting safely three times and walking twice in four times at the plate.

Eleven errors by the Athletes in the second game and seven hits enabled the visitors to grab a farcical windup. Bell held the Athletes to two hits in the five innings and his team played errorless ball behind him.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero

Joe Jackson of the White Sox. He saved the bacon with a mighty clout in the ninth of the second game which scored Eddie Collins and also himself with the tying run. A mix-up at the plate gave Joe a bad bump and he was carried from the field, only to resume later.

The Cubs and Pirates split a double bill in shutout contests.

The Reds hit the dust twice, the Cards being the aggressors. The fans treated Ump. Rigler to a shower of empty pop bottles when he made a decision against St. Louis.

The White Sox pulled out even for the day with the Brown after a thirteen inning scrap in the afternoon, when Eddie Collins' hit scored Weaver. Williams framed eight Brown men in the first three innings..

The Red Sox climbed towards the top by licking the Athletics twice. Errors were responsible for the Mackmen's second lose.

Lajoie startled the natives with a homer.

Homers by McBride and Baker featured the Yankee-Senators double session, in which honors were divided.

The Tigers drove veteran Fred Beebe from the mound in his third appearance and won the first game with the Indians, but lost the second.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

FOUL BEATS AD WHO SAYS THAT WELSH LAY DOWN

DENVER, Col., July 5.—Prospects for a championship fight between Freddie Welsh and Charlie White, Colorado Springs, were improved today following the Englishman's victory over Ad Wolgast on a foul in the eleventh round of their scheduled fifteen round bout here last night. Welsh was the master of Wolgast at every stage and gamely continued after a twenty-five minute rest following a low blow from Wolgast in the third round. Doctors could find no visible sign of a foul in this round and Barney Lichtenstein, Wolgast's manager, claimed Welsh quit.

DE PALMA WINS ST. PAUL DERBY

FORT SNELLING, Minn., July 5.—Ralph De Palma on Tuesday won the 150 mile automobile derby at the Twin City motor speedway here, covering the distance in one hour, 38 minutes, 49.24 seconds, an average speed of 91.08 miles per hour.

The Giants were made to walk the plank twice by the Dodgers. Benny Kauff tried to pull a Ty Cobb and was chased. He threw his bat high in the air when called out on strikes.

REVENUE BILL FOR $210,000,000 GETS FAVORABLE REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The administration revenue bill, intended to raise $210,000,000 additional revenue to pay the bills of preparedness and the cost of the Mexican expedition, was favorably reported to the house this afternoon by the ways and means committee. It will be taken up for consideration by the house tomorrow.

REPUBLICAN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MAY HOLD SIX PROGRESSIVES

NEW YORK, July 5.—Six of the seventeen members of the republican executive committee to direct the coming campaign for the election of Charles E. Hughes will be progressives, it was said about political headquarters here today.

The first campaign efforts are expected to be exerted in Maine, where a state election will be held in September. At democratic headquarters it was learned that National Chairman McCormick is also laying his lines for the opening battle in Maine.

The progressives to be selected to serve on the republican executive committee will be: Herbert Knox Smith of Connecticut; Chester H. Rowell of California; William Allen White of Kansas; Everett Colby of New Jersey; James R. Garfield of Ohio, and George W. Perkins of New York.

EMPLOY ALIENISTS TO PROVE MARIAN WAS IN A MIND FOR SUICIDE

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 5.—Alienists were called for the defense in Will Orpet's trial for Marian Lambert's murder today to establish that Marian's frame of mind before her death was that of a girl contemplating suicide.

The giggling, apparently happy disposition of Marian was to be shown as a school girl's hysterical way of concealing secret sorrows.

The alienists, Doctors William O. Krohn and John A. Wisner, were also to explain that Will Orpet's acts after the tragedy in Helms woods were governed by a boyish fear and not by the calculating mind of a murderer.

REFUGEE TRANSPORT DOCKS AFTER BEING DELAYED BY STORMS

NEW YORK, July 5.—The Ward line this afternoon announced that it was in receipt of a cable from Havana to the effect that the transport Monterey for which considerable anxiety had been felt, arrived at that port at 6 a. m. today.

The cable stated that the vessel had been delayed by bad weather.

The navy department had previously radiographed all its vessels to be on the lookout for the Monterey.

The Boy is Father to the Ma[n]

Old sayings like this are fraught with a most important meaning. And what will aid the expectant mother in conserving her health, her strength, her mental repose and the absence of vexatious pains is a subject of vast moment. Among the recognized helps is a splendid remedy known as "Mother's Friend." Applied to the muscles it sinks in deeply to make them firm and pliant, it thus lifts the strain on ligaments that produce pain, it lightens the burden on the nervous system, induces calm, restful nights of health-giving sleep and makes the days sunny and happy. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" of any druggist and you will then realize why it has been considered true to its name in our best homes through three generations. It is perfectly harmless but so effective that once used it is recommended to all expectant mothers by those who went through the ordeal with surprising ease. By writing to Bradfield Regulator Co., 412 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., you can have a free copy of a wonderful stork book that unfolds those things which all expectant mothers delight to read. Last Firecracker Of Fourth Sets Fire To Woodshed

What is believed to have been the last firecracker of the Glorious Fourth, one of the noisiest days in the history of La Crosse, set fire to a woodshed in the rear of the residence of Edward Sloane, Seventh and Pine streets, at 12:20 last night. Central fire company responded to a call. The building was destroyed.

POSTPONE INQUEST WHILE THE POLICE STILL INVESTIGATE

Because new developments are expected in the case, the inquest of Mrs. Catherine Dahl, who was killed by an automobile, the driver of which switched off his lights and escaped in a burst of speed, to have been held this afternoon, was postponed until next Monday.

"I am not satisfied with the state of things," District Attorney Otto M. Schlabach said today. "I believe that there are some new developments which may come soon."

INFANTILE PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC BECOMES THE WORST MENACE OF YEARS

NEW YORK, July 5.—The epidemic of infantile paralysis in Brooklyn and New York today assumed the proportion of one of the most serious problems the health authorities have been called upon to meet in years in the saving of human lives.

Seventy new cases of children suffering from the disease were reported up to noon. Seven additional deaths were reported, all in Brooklyn. A total of 157 cases were reported to the health department during the last forty-eight hours, and of this number forty-eight were in Brooklyn.

A total number of deaths reached thirty-three at noon, and the total number of cases reported in Greater New York was increased to 617.

EL PASO, Tex., July 5.—The Second Massachusetts infantry enroute to Columbus, N. M., sat cramped on the floor of their coaches for thirty-five miles passing along the Rio Grande. The commanding officer issued orders that no man expose himself at the car windows lest they be fired upon by Mexicans.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—If radical women suffrage workers continue to heckle democratic speakers as Miss Mabel Vernon of Nevada did President Wilson here yesterday, they will drive away men who naturally would support them, declared Senator Thomas of Colorado on the floor today.

MEAT PRICES WILL RISE

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Meat prices in the United States will continue climbing, temporarily at least, the United States department of agriculture stated today. An exhaustive world's study of meat conditions has resulted in an investigation by the department experts. The meat supply everywhere is not keeping up with the demand.

TAXICAB DRIVER MURDERED

OSHKOSH, Wis., July 5.—Police today are without a clew in their attempt to solve the mystery surrounding the murder of George J. Bischoff, a taxicab driver. Bischoff was lured to the outskirts of the city and murdered, the authorities believe.

AMERICAN PEACE LOVING WOLFE SAYS AT MADISON

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—"The United States is essentially a peace loving nation. She will not be embroiled in the European war or in a war with Mexico, unless our territory is invaded or the rights of our citizens jeopardized."

This was the sentiment of an address delivered here late yesterday afternoon by William Wolfe of La Crosse, announced candidate for United States senator on the democratic ticket. He praised the patriotism of the people of the United States and said that it was a slander to say that they sympathized so with people across the seas that they would not defend our own country if occasion arose. This country was right in following the doctrine of Washington in his farewell address to keep this country free from foreign establishments.

"In his day Washington was the richest man in this country," declared Mr. Wolfe. "Yet when the revolutionary war came you find him patriotic. You do not find him asking, 'What do I get out of it?' Today when there is a call to the colors you do not find the men of this country asking, 'What do I get out of it.'"

Mr. Wolfe declared that the spirit among the few who always asked, "What do I get out of it?" was not becoming to citizens of the United States. Greed and selfishness and sordidness can never rule the American heart, he declared.

SUNSET POINTERS COMBINE IN A BIG FIREWORKS PARTY

Seven summer cottagers of Sunset Point, opposite the village of Dresbach, Minn., on the Mississippi, combined forces last night in a display of fireworks. The cottagers bombarded the sky with rockets, Roman candles and set pieces until a late hour.

HOPE OF ADDITIONAL DIVIDEND HELPS STEEL

NEW YORK, July 5.—United States Steel was the talk of Wall street today, bears and bulls contributing the theories while Steel advanced 7-8 to 87 1-8.

Prospect of declaration of an extra dividend of from 1 to 3 per cent on the common stock at the directors' meeting, July 25, was generally discussed. Estimates of earnings for the second quarter range from $70,000,000 to $80,000,000, which, it is figured would leave a surplus of about $50,000,000 for dividends and reserve fund. Against these figures there appears also estimates that the monthly filled orders report Monday will show a decrease, due in part to the fact that construction orders have been held up pending clearing of the Mexican situation.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

THE LANDLORD

BY LOUISE OLIVER

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When moving time came it was unfortunate for Cornelia that both her parents had to be away. Business had taken one, illness the other, and even Ben, her college brother, couldn't make his spring vacation coincide with moving time.

So with black Judas and his wife, Violet, she had managed to get china, rugs and furniture into shape for transportation across the city to the cozy new bungalow in the hillside above the river.

After all it was Cornelia's own idea, the bit of country and the roomy spread-out place with wide verandas and fruit trees, so different from the high, narrow city house, the counterpart of thousands on streets exactly alike except for the names.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson had taken root, so to speak, in the brick and cement of the city and it had taken many months of persuasion for Cornelia to convince them that view and fresh air and individuality would compensate for inconvenience in getting to town and that the reduced expense of living would in time enable them to buy a motor car.

For days Cornelia had scoured agencies and scanned lists, waded through mud and lost her way, ruined clothes and caught colds, and altogether it had been a most disheartening process. But her courage remained unshaken and her will at last found a way, for one day she came across what she wanted—exactly! A bungalow on a hillside with a superb view of the river. This was no mere house, it was explained to her at the office, the owner having built it for himself, but he was an Englishman and had gone to war and was now somewhere in the trenches in France.

Moving day came. Cornelia rose at six and after a hurried breakfast took the car to her future home. It was a wonderful morning, cool and brisk, and even the bare streets of the city had found it impossible to crowd out spring. Bits of clover and grass were making green patches in every available inch of ground, dead looking branches were being rapidly covered with yellowish green buds, and behind several iron fences brave patches of tulips and jonquils bloomed. As the car sped on and the distances between houses widened, nature showed her handiwork in gardens of wonderful shrubs and spring flowers.

"It's just like getting out of jail!" thought Cornelia, watching a fat robin on a lawn tug at a worm. "It is worth all the tramping and hard work to be able to live in the country. I can hardly believe it is true."

The conductor began to call stations instead of streets. At one of these Cornelia got off and made her way along the roads toward the haven on the hill that was to be her home.

She mounted the steps of the terrace and took out her key. Then the hum of a powerful motor caught her ear. Down the road were coming two immense trucks loaded with furniture.

"Some one else moving out this way!" she commented and inserted her key in the lock. The sound ceased and she looked around. The trucks had stopped in front of the bungalow.

"I don't see how they could get here so quickly." Her brows drew together. "Mr. O'Hagan said it would be an hour!"

Then around the corner of the house came a man who called, "Hello, Dorgan! Come on and help me get a door open. I forgot to get the keys!" Then, seeing Cornelia with her key in the lock, he hurried up the steps. "Good morning! I see the agent has sent out the keys. Stupid of me to forget them, but the arrangement was made by phone and I never thought of them. But it was kind of you to bring them. Thank you very much."

"I don't quite understand," said Cornelia. "I rented this house a week ago and we are moving in this morning. There seems to be some mistake. Mr. Alpin & Co. are the agents, and if you are not convinced you can call them and ask about it."

The man regarded her quietly for a minute. She was very pretty, was Cornelia—very—and one would have said that his mind was not entirely upon the fact that some one else was trying to move into the same domicile with himself.

Cornelia, in turn slightly belligerent, but calm withal, saw a tall, pale man, well dressed, who held his hat with the grace of the king of Spain, or any other well-bred monarch.

"What shall we do to McAlpin & Co?" asked the man quietly. "They assured me the property was without a tenant and that I could certainly move in. But, you see, such large agencies, with so many clerks, do make mistakes. However, to annihilate them won't help matters much, will it? That wouldn't change the house into two houses. And for us to demolish one another wouldn't do either, would it, because"—he paused an instant, "well, because it wouldn't. You said 'we' were moving in. That implies a family?" interrogatively.

"Yes, my father and mother and brother. I am Cornelia Anderson."

"So, you see, to do away with you still leaves a father and mother and brother. Now with me it's different. I'm alone! And if you will only look at me with a little more tolerance, I will beat a hasty retreat and take my cook stove and rocking chairs along with me."

Cornelia completely mollified, held out the key. "Under the circumstances we have no more right to the house than you have. I can't possibly move our furniture into it knowing that I am leaving an American and a gentleman out in the cold world without any home."

They laughed together. "But," he protested, "you wouldn't exactly be leaving me without a home. I really was only going to use the place as a sort of storage house for my things for the time being—not a home, you see, at least for some time to come. Moreover, the world isn't cold—not now. I thought it was a little dreary and chilly this morning, but things have brightened wonderfully. Besides, I'm not altogether an American gentleman. I'm an English soldier just now."

"Then you—then this is your house. You are my landlord!"

"Don't call me that, please—it sounds so unfriendly."

"But the house is yours! They told me all about you at the office!"

"True enough! But that hasn't anything to do with the case. I'm home on sick leave. I'm going back soon. All I'm doing now is to make havoc of other people's plans. So I'm better out of the way."

Cornelia was silent a minute. Then, "There's an immense attic! Would that be of any use?"

He caught her meaning. "That's a bully idea! Don't you need it—the garret, I mean?"

"No, indeed! We'd be glad to have you use it!"

"Thanks awfully. Then it's settled. I'll tell Dorgan he can put the things in. I must be off on the one o'clock train and I've some business to attend to before I leave."

Cornelia was silent. Try as she would, she could think of nothing to say in parting. But the soldier went on. "Will you come to the end of the veranda with me where there is a better view of the river?"

She went with him.

"A soldier in active service cannot afford to lose a minute. Don't think me abrupt, it you can help it, but try to understand that after the next few minutes I may never see you again. And I'd like to go away with the feeling that you'd hope for me to come back. Is it a hopeless wish?"

Cornelia did not stop to understand the panic in her heart as she answered him slowly:

"No—I do hope very much that you will come home soon—safe and sound. I shall be very, very glad to see you."

He caught her hand suddenly in his. "Dear girl, he said earnestly, "I'll come!"

CHILDREN WE WORRY ABOUT

Close confinement in school during the past winter, overstudy perhaps, an attack of the grip or tonsilitis, some one of these things is doubtless responsible for the condition of the child who shows a decline in health now.

What are the symptoms? Pallor and languor, a fickle appetite, dark rings under the eyes, bronchial colds. Very often the best efforts of the family physician fail in such cases and the condition of the child causes the most intense anxiety. Cod-liver oil, so often prescribed, generally fails because the weak stomach is unable to digest fats.

Try this treatment. Before breakfast each morning give the child the juice of half an orange. After the noon meal give one of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Keep this up for a few days and then give one of the pills after the evening meal also. Weigh the child before beginning the treatment and again after two weeks. An increase in weight of from two to five pounds will show you that you are on the right track at last. Care is necessary in the diet of the patient and it will be well to send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a diet book and the pamphlet, "Building Up the Blood." Both are free. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

CARGILL HEIRS TO GET DIVISION OF TWO MILLION

That the sum of $2,000,000 exists to be divided among the heirs of the W. W. Cargill estate was made known today through the filing of a petition on the part of the heirs for a division of $500,000 which they named as one-fourth of the available funds.

When the estate was probated in county court here in 1909, an inventory showed the vast estate so encumbered that immediate liquidation probably would have meant bankruptcy, claims approximating $2,500,000 being involved.

Frank P. Hixon was appointed trustee, and a concern known as the Cargill Securities company was formed.

In an interview today Mr. Hixon told of the success of the company.

"Collateral notes for $2,500,000 were issued when the concern was formed," he said. "They were to have fallen due January 1, 1917. These notes were paid in full with interest on July 1, six months before they were due. The obligations of the company are less than one-quarter of what they were."

POLICE WITHOUT CLUE AS TO THE DRUG ROBBERS

Police are today without a clue, they say, as to the thieves who entered the Charles Beyschlag drug store Monday night, taking $23 in cash and a quantity of morphine.

TWO MORE FINED IN SPEEDERS RAID

R. Hackbarth, who on Monday pleaded not guilty to a charge of speeding in Judge Hunt's court, appeared this afternoon at 2 o'clock and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $12.50.

Norman Hall, driver of the Hall ice cream company's delivery wagon, was brought up at 2:15. Besides fining the offender the usual $12.50 Judge Hunt administered a severe reprimand. He charged Hall with being one of the most flagrant violators of the speed ordinance in the city and threatened him or his drivers with a fine of $50 should any of the force be found guilty in his court a second time.

A large number of warrants have been sworn out and it is expected that a number of speeders would be brought up late this afternoon.

EX-REPRESENTATIVE OF MASSACHUSETTS IS HELD FOR ILLEGAL OPERATION

EX REPRECENTATIVE LEAD

SALEM, Mass., July 5.—Six men were arrested here early today when they were found with the body of a woman lying on the floor of the tonneau of their automobile. They were taken to the police station and booked on a charge of being accessories to an illegal operation. One of the men gave his name as ex-Representative Charles R. O'Connell of Peabody. The woman was identified as Miss Margaret Ward.

The woman was the sister-in-law of Police Sergeant Charles Duffy, who was one of the two officers to make the arrest. He identified the body.

In the car with ex-Representative O'Connell wah his brother, James O'Connell of Lynn, George A. Bardwell of the U. S. S. Kearsarge, Daniel J. Dineen of Salem, William Conlon of Salem, and Thomas Sexton of Peabody.

Patrolman Healy noticed the automobile being driven back and forth on Boston street about 4 a. m. He stopped it directly in front of Sergeant Duffy's home and then discovered the body of the dead woman in a sitting position in the tonneau. Duffy came out of his home as Healy stopped the car and the two made the arrests.

"My niece suffered with itching eczema for nearly six months. Her face and body were covered with blisters which broke open and started to spread, and as soon as one blister opened a few days later more eruptions would appear. Her face was a fright to look at and the child was very cross and could not sleep nights.

"Then I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using two boxes of the Cuticura Ointment together with the Cuticura Soap she was entirely healed." (Signed) Miss Therese Selesky, 2016 Cortland St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 19, 1915.

WILLIAMS SAYS HE IS OUT FOR GOVERNORSHIP

MADISON, Wis., July 5.—Burt Williams, internal revenue collector for the western district of Wisconsin, and one of the best known democrats in the state, today announced his candidacy for Governor. The announcement comes as a result of an appeal to Mr. Williams last week.

"It appeals to me therefore as a call to duty, to work, to service, by the great majority of official leaders of the local democracy in the interest of the whole citizenship. It is a call that I could not possibly refuse. Placing as it does upon me a great responsibility and a solemn duty I nevertheless gladly enlist in the cause and comply with the request to enter as a candidate for governor," declared Mr. Williams.

LOCAL SHIPPERS STRIKE FOR FAIR RATES UPON COAL

Interstate Commerce Commission Hears Complaint Presented by La Crosse Shippers' Association

The La Crosse Shippers' association began at 10 o'clock this morning the presentation of evidence in the several cases to be presented before the interstate commerce commission. The hearing is being held in the federal court room before A. B. Pugh, examiner for the commission.

Dockett 8622, which asks for a reduction on soft coal shipped from West Virginia points to La Crosse, was the first case to be heard. The case involves both the Milwaukee and the Northwestern railroads. S. J. Boulton and W. W. West are conducting the hearing for the La Crosse merchants; the C. M. & St. P. is represented by its attorney, J. M. Davis, and the C. & N. W., by R. D. Whillicombe, attorney.

In opening the case for the La Crosse merchants Mr. Boulton declared that the present date of $1.35 a ton on bituminous coal violates section one of the interstate commerce law, inasmuch as it is a higher rate than the rate obtaining for Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, Menominee and Red Wing. These points receive a rate of $1.30 a ton, although the distance from Chicago in each case is greater than the distance to La Crosse. He asked that the rate be reduced to $1.25 a ton, which seemed to him to be a reasonable rate. When cross-examined by the attorneys for the railroads, Mr. Boulton further testified that a rate of $1.40 a ton was at one time in force, but that the rate had since been reduced.

Local Men Testify

W. R. Montague, P. J. Yerly and R. W. Keyes were called for the complainants. Their testimony concerned the amount of coal which passed through their hands yearly. The complainants declared themselves injured by the present rate; the cross-examination of the railroad attorneys attempted to show that inasmuch as the freight rate was passed on to the consumer, the La Crosse dealers are not injured by the present rate.

Defense Presents Case

J. M. Cleveland, assistant general freight agent for the C. & N. W., was the first witness called for the defense. That most of the soft coal shipped from West Virginia came through lake ports like Milwaukee, Sheboygan, and Superior, and was therefore intra-state traffic after it reached the docks, was the argument he advanced against the change in rates. He further testified that the Northwestern had applied to the Wisconsin railway commission for an intra-state rate of $1.40 a ton on such shipments, and that this rate would be applied if the petition was granted. The present rate of $1.35 on interstate shipments, he declared, is 5 cents below the normal basis, which obtained a few months before the present rate went into effect.

C. A. Lahay, assistant freight and traffic manager for the C. M. & St. P., had just begun his testimony with the declaration that the Milwaukee situation was like the Northwestern situation, when the hearing was adjourned to 2 o'clock.

INDIAN IS HURT WHEN HE BOARDS "BLIND" BAGGAGE

John Thompson, Indian, is at St. Francis hospital with a dislocated shoulder and severely bruised left leg. The injuries resulted when Thompson and another man, who has not been located, tried to board the "blind baggage" of southbound Burlington passenger train No. 58, at the station here at 10:48 last night. Thompson's body was struck by the protruding end of a box car and he was hurled to the ground.

UNKNOWN BODY IS BURIED TODAY UNIDENTIFIED

The body of the unidentified man found floating in the Black river near the railroad bridge by two French Island boys Monday evening was buried at the county poor farm this morning from Coroner Tetley's undertaking establishment.

But one clue was ascertainable concerning the man's identity. The rumor that the body was that Mr. Nels Kvam, French Island, who has not been seen for five weeks, was run down but the family was positive upon viewing the body that it was not that of Mr. Kvam. No other facts pertaining to the victim's identity have come to the coroner. It was his opinion that the body had been in the water for many days.

MAIL POUCH IS STOLEN FROM CAR AND IS RIFLED

Pouch Containing Letters and Packages Is Cut Open by Thieves While Clerk Walks Short Distance Away

A government mail pouch, containing several score letters addressed to points between La Crosse and Milwaukee, and a few parcel post packages, was taken from a Milwaukee road mail coach in the yards near the station at about 5:30 yesterday afternoon while a mail clerk in charge of the coach was walking to the station.

The pouch was carried to the ruins of the old Spence-McCord building, between the Milwaukee yards and Riverside park, cut open with a knife and rifled of all its contents. The letters and packages were found strewn upon the ground. They had all been opened. The contents of one of the packages was missing.

Postal Inspector J. F. Nicholson said today that to his knowledge the mailpouch contained but few letters.

Police have arrested several suspects in the case.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL PROPOSITION FOR SPARTA REJECTED

SPARTA, Wis., July 5.—(Special.)—The city experienced its regular trouble by way of the annual school meeting which was held last night. The meeting was held in the Armory at 8 o'clock and was exceedingly spirited.

E. A. Richardson called the meeting to order. Dr. F. R. Salisbury was chosen chairman, but as he was not present, T. C. Longwell was designated to take the chair.

The reading of the report of the board, including the report of the supervising teacher for the past year, followed. Other minor matters of business were discussed, after which the report of the treasurer, Howard Teasdale, was presented. Resolutions were offered for appropriations for current expenses and $263 were voted for a coal room addition to the East side primary building. Dr. Carl Beebe was elected to succeed E. A. Richardson as director on the board.

High School Up

The subject of a new high school was taken up following the formalities of the reports, and the fight over the proposed location was again renewed. L. F. Hill and E. A. Richardson submitted a paper setting forth their views in favor of building upon the new site purchased a year ago. The suggestions were turned down. A hot discussion followed, and Clerk Louis T. Hill handed in a written resignation, which however was not accepted.

New School Rejected

Ex-Senator Henry W. Barker next made a motion, which was finally carried, that the bond issue which was voted upon last year, be withdrawn, and indefinitely postponed. This means that there is now no available funds for a new high school building.

Howard Teasdale offered a resolution to the effect that the school board be empowered to acquire all the land in the block now occupied by the high and ward schools, at such times as they could do so most advantageously. Mr. Teasdale's suggestion was put in the form of a motion and carried.

To Improve Course of Study

Dr. Salisbury made a motion, which carried, that a committee of three be appointed to lay out a more practical course of study than now exists in the schools, and that $100 be appropriated for their expenses, and that their report be given at the next meeting.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HOT WATER THE BEST LIVER AND BOWEL MEDICINE

Says glass of hot water before breakfast washes poisons from system.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue it each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.
